OEHHA,

Upon notification of the approval to allow 1100mg of glyphosate for daily human consumption, I hereby protest that this is a danger to the health of ourselves and our children, and I ask that the motion be rescinded.

Being a sustainable and organic farmer and viticulturist myself, I know the added costs and time incurred when implementing more natural farming practices. The benefit to the soil, the plants, our water sources and animal and human life is WORTH EVERY PENNY. Every human has the right to clean air, clean water and clean food! By passing your article, you are allowing and giving permission to farmers and big Agricultural companies to take the cheap, easy route for weed control at the great expense of our health.

NO amount of Glyphosate along with the additional adjuvants added to these herbicide products should be allowed in our food. Glyphosate is a dangerous chelator and antibiotic- which not only kills plants by interrupting the Shikimate pathway in its metabolic function, but also kills bacteria, fungi & algae in the same method. The human body is made up of more bacterial cells than human cells, with a huge portion living in our digestive systems which are a dire necessity to our ability to derive nutrients from our foods and for the development of a healthy immune system.

Allowing the continued use of this toxin for the convenience of the farmer is NOT WORTH the enormous health risk associated with it.

Sincerely,
Laura Stearn
